Public Humanities
GRADUATE FELLOWS PROGRAM

Preparing students for careers as dynamic, socially engaged humanists within and beyond the academy

Through seminars, practical experience, and a capstone project, Graduate Fellows become conversant with the history, theories, and methods of public humanities and gain experience using their skills in a variety of civic and professional environments.

OPEN TO
HFA and Social Sciences PhD students
Students may apply at any stage of their graduate career.

PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS
COURSE WORK + PRACTICUM + CAPSTONE PROJECT

REQUIRED COURSES

INT201HT: HISTORY AND THEORY OF PUBLIC HUMANITIES

Addresses history, theories, and methodologies of publicly engaged humanities and considers the role of the public university in advancing democratic values and equipping citizens with the tools necessary to be full participants in society

INT201SP: SKILLS FOR THE PUBLIC SPHERE

Instructs in using academic research tools beyond the university; communicating skillfully with diverse publics; working with community partners and nonprofits; creating websites and social media campaigns; grant writing and budgets

PRACTICUM
Public humanities internships and fellow-designed community projects provide graduate students paid opportunities to apply their academic training in community settings.

CAPSTONE PROJECT
Fellows present their work in a forum that reaches a broad audience.

INTERNSHIPS AND FELLOW-DESIGNED COMMUNITY PROJECTS
